CORKATHON 2026

In Time

Find out before your stock runs out.

Live open data that tells small Irish importers whether their goods will be late or dearer, in plain English.

Isabelle Lynch & Khoi · Sponsor: FRAME, Cork

THE PROBLEM

Niamh hears about the Rotterdam strike a week too late.

21 days
of coffee beans left in her Cork roastery

35 days
for a new order from Santos, via Rotterdam

US $
invoice, exchange rate not fixed

The warning signs were all public: port notices, news, ECB rates. Nobody had time to join them up.

SHE IS NOT ALONE

49,600

Irish businesses imported goods in 2022. 98% of them are small or medium.

Source: CSO, Ireland’s Trade in Goods 2022, trade by enterprise size

HOW IN TIME WORKS

One route in. One plain answer out.

You tell us

- Your ports, e.g. Santos, Rotterdam, Cork
- Invoice currency and how much is fixed
- Days of stock and order lead time

We check

- Port and shipping news for your ports only
- Official port and carrier notices
- ECB exchange rates, for 24 currencies

You get

- Late? Dearer? In plain English
- One next step
- Every source, dated

Nothing you type is stored. We never guess your route.

LIVE DEMO

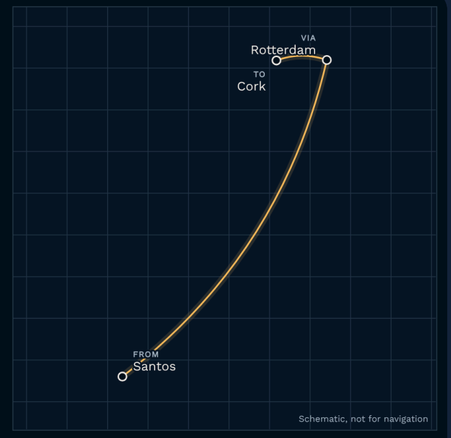

It says when it doesn’t know.

- No official confirmation, so no false alarm
- Stock: 14 days short, from her own numbers
- Her route on a map, ports’ notices linked
- Cost in euro, checked against her bank’s quote

Your question: “Will my next coffee order be late or cost more?”

We can’t determine whether your shipment is affected.

Checked 12:30 UK time. Trade figures are August data, ECB rate as of 6 Nov, port news from 10:51.

Port positions are approximate. A dashed ring marks a news report, a filled dot a confirmed event.

YOUR STOCK

⚠ 14 days short

Stock lasts 21 days. Lead time is 35 days. You're 14 days short.

How sure: From your own numbers.

Your details typed just now

YOUR ROUTE

⊘ Nothing reported

We can’t determine whether your shipment is affected. Checked 4 sources: 0 unconfirmed reports, no carrier or port confirmation for your route.

News for Santos, Rotterdam, Cork is from a saved copy.

How sure: No report doesn’t mean on time: quiet delays may never make the news.

News to 7 Nov, 09:30

YOUR COST IN EURO

✓ About the same

Since 7 Oct, the euro cost of the part you haven't fixed would be about 0.1% higher (ECB rate as of 6 Nov). This isn't your bank's rate. Ask for a current quote. Exchange rates say nothing about delays.

How sure: Official ECB rate, not your bank’s rate.

Your bank’s rate (USD per €1)

ECB reference: 1.1165. Type your bank’s quote to see its margin.

ECB rate for 6 Nov 2026

WHEN IT'S CONFIRMED

One clear next step.

- An official notice on her route
- Plus a stock shortfall
- = "Check your forwarder's ETA today"

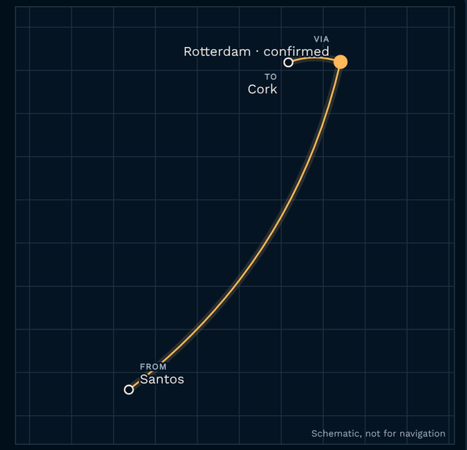

Saved example from 7 Nov. Live alerts switch on once port and carrier notices are cleared for reuse.

Your question: "Will my next coffee order be late or cost more?"

Check your forwarder's ETA today: your stock runs out 14 days before a new order would arrive.

Checked 11:05 UK time. Trade figures are August data, ECB rate as of 6 Nov, port news from 10:40.

Showing saved example data. Port news last refreshed 2 hours ago.

Port positions are approximate. A dashed ring marks a news report, a filled dot a confirmed event.

YOUR STOCK

⚠ 14 days short

Stock lasts 21 days. Lead time is 35 days. You're 14 days short.

How sure: From your own numbers.

Your details example figures

YOUR ROUTE

⚠ Confirmed event

This may delay shipments on the route you confirmed. We can't tell yet whether your shipment is affected.

CONFIRMED Port of Rotterdam reports berth congestion on your transshipment leg.

Port notice, 7 Nov · 1 incident after merging 6 duplicate stories (GDELT)

How sure: Confirmed by an official carrier or port page that names your route.

News to 1–7 Nov 2026

YOUR COST IN EURO

⚠ About 1.9% dearer

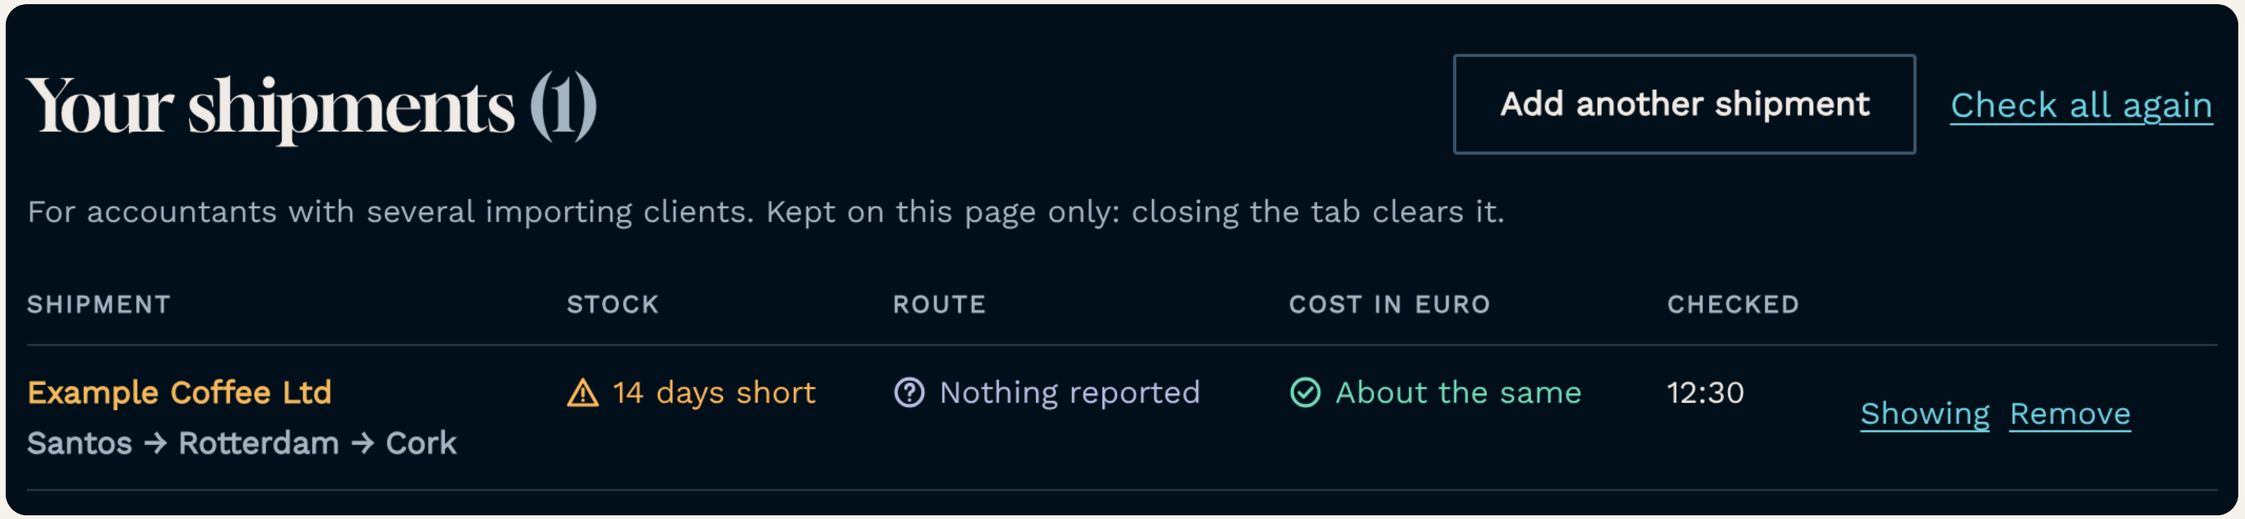

Since 7 Oct, the euro cost of the part you haven't fixed would be about 1.9% higher (ECB rate as of 6 Nov). This isn't your bank's rate. Ask for a current quote.

How sure: Official ECB rate, not your bank's rate.

ECB rate for 6 Nov

BUILT FOR ACCOUNTANTS TOO

One page for all your importing clients.

Check all again in one click

Re-checks every 30 minutes and shows what changed

Copy a summary straight into an email to the client

WHY IN TIME

Big companies have Resilinc and GoComet. Niamh has the radio.

Innovation

Enterprise-grade early warning for a five-person business: no setup, free public data, delay and cost in one answer.

Impact

49,600 Irish importers, 98% SMEs, and the accountants who advise them. Earlier warning on late stock and dearer invoices.

Technical depth

Live data, route matching, duplicate merging, a rules-based decision engine, cache with fallback. 99 tests; accessibility checked.

Trust

Every number is sourced and dated. Nothing you type is stored. It says when it doesn’t know.

HONEST LIMITS

What it can’t do yet, and what’s next.

Where it breaks

- Can’t see your specific container
- News is a signal, not proof
- No live alerts until official notices are cleared for reuse
- ECB rate is not your bank’s rate

With more time

- Switch on official confirmation, once reuse terms are recorded
- Live ship data, once licensing is clear
- Email or text alerts, not just while the page is open
- Testing with real importers and FRAME’s clients

IN TIME

Late or dearer? Now they know in time.

Plain answers for 49,600 Irish importers, from sources they can check.

Isabelle Lynch & Khoi · Data: ECB, GDELT, CSO, Eurostat · Corkathon 2026